

THIS MONTH —

 Storybook

Welcome to the first ever Savas Labs Newsletter!

We know you're busy but still want the technology news goodness. We've put together a monthly newsletter to deliver industry news, events, and interesting things we've been doing — straight to your inbox. You've been added to this list because we've exchanged emails with you in the past, but if you're not up for it you can unsubscribe.

You won't want to though, because this month, we're serving up all things Storybook; the open source tool that lets you develop UI components in isolation. You know, the one everyone's been talking about.

 Featured work —Integrating component*libraries: Storybook + Drupal

Once upon a time, we wanted the ability for front-end developers to begin building out pieces of a project before our back-end team had the Drupal site up and running. Enter Storybook.

Client shoutout —

One of the country's top business schools, the Darden School of Business at UVA, has a new look! This project was a full redesign and complete rebuild to Drupal 8. We must say, they've never looked better.

And now, a GIF —

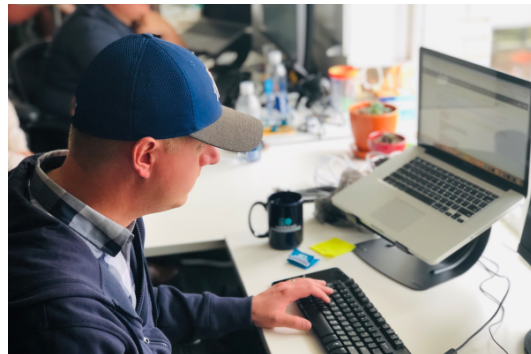

A cat gif from your pet-loving Savas team. We even have a Slack channel dedicated to (mostly sharing photos of) our pets!

Join the team —

We're hiring! We are looking for a JavaScript Engineer and a couple others to join our team.
